TEXT 1: ANIME: A GLOBAL POP CULTURE PHENOMENON KEY

- 1 The origin of anime can be traced back to the beginning of the 20th century. However, it wasn't until 1958 that Hiroshi Okawa,
2 president of the Toei Doga production company, decided to turn it into the "Disney of the East." His efforts were worth it, and anime
3 gradually became a global cultural phenomenon. In order to understand how significant this phenomenon is we can travel back to 4 2004, when Japan sent trucks to Iraq to help reconstruction. The Japanese feared that the local population would not recognize 5 their flag stamped on the trucks' sides. To avoid this, they decorated the trucks with posters of Captain Tsubasa, a popular anime 6 character.
7 One reason why anime gained such popularity internationally in the 90s was its distinctive style, easily recognizable by its 8 simplified animation and its characters' disproportionately big eyes. The animation style was basic because reducing the number 9 of frames helped to save money. The second trait, the huge eyes, responds to multiple factors. Big eyes make it easier for 10 animators to express emotions powerfully by concentrating on just one body part. At the same time, audiences are positively drawn 11 to big round eyes, which make characters look innocent and young. Japanese culture also plays a part in anime's expressive eyes, 12 since the polite thing in Japan is not to show emotions openly through body language but through subtle eye expressions.
13 Anime has stayed hugely successful worldwide because it appeals to a wide range of people of all ages and nationalities who 14 keep loyal to their cartoons for years. The emotional soundtracks and eye-catching colours keep hooking fans today.

TEXT 2: THIS JOB IS A PIECE OF CAKE! KEY

- 1 It turns out you might be able to eat candy for a living and make thousands in the process. Canada's Candy Funhouse is hiring 2 a chief candy officer, according to a recent job posting.
3 "Do you love candy and chocolate? Are you passionate about sweet treats and exploring unreleased and existing products? If 5 dollars annually. The job can be remote or based in its Canada or New Jersey offices.

6 The chief candy officer will serve as head taste tester and try over 3,500 products monthly. Besides eating about 113 pieces

8 products Candy Funhouse will release into the market. Applicants can be as young as 5 years old and must reside in North 9 America.
10 "All you need is a passion for candy and pop culture, and obviously a sweet tooth!" According to the job description, the chief 11 candy officer will also undergo "extensive palate training," which will be provided by the company. No previous experience is 12 necessary. So far, nearly 6,500 people have applied for the job. Inquiries on the job are so numerous that the company has 13 admitted that its usual response time is delayed.
14 The position no doubt involves excessive consumption of sugar, which the World Health Organization recommends limiting to
